Teacher Perceptions of Reading Comprehension Strategies in Middle School Content Area Classrooms Jul 03 2021 Understanding how to instill reading comprehension strategies in all students is paramount to student success. Many middle school teachers focus instruction on content concepts rather than the automaticity of skills needed to access content area information. Content area teachers need to support a cooperative, team approach to reading comprehension strategy instruction in all subject areas. This research study explored a team of sixth grade content area teachers in an urban middle school in southern Connecticut as they implemented a reading comprehension strategy program as a team to determine which reading comprehension strategies the team perceived successful for all students in all content area classrooms. Content area classrooms included a language arts teacher, a science teacher, a mathematics teacher, and a social studies teacher. Interviews were conducted individually and as a team prior to the study, during the study, and at the conclusion of the study. Themes which emerged from the study were: teacher perceptions of collaboration, identification of successful reading comprehension strategies, classroom implementation, teacher perceptions of student response to reading comprehension strategy program, and teacher perceptions of implementing reading comprehension strategy program. The study revealed a need for content area teachers to continue to scaffold reading comprehension strategy instruction students received at the elementary school level.

A Study on Teaching Reading Comprehension in the Science Content Area with and Without Supplementary Materials Oct 26 2020

Improving Content Area Reading Comprehension with 4-6th Grade Spanish ELLs Using Web-Based Structure Strategy Instruction Nov 14 2019 Reading in the content areas of science, social studies, and current events is a difficult task that is even more elusive to Spanish speaking English language learners. There is a huge increase in children transitioning from their L1 (e.g., Spanish) to L2 (e.g., English) in classrooms across the US. These ELs face challenges due to a lack of fluency in decoding, vocabulary, and word, sentence, and discourse level complexities in English learning. Structure strategy instruction on the Web for English Language Learners (SWELL) is a web-based tutoring system that supports ELs in reading comprehension by teaching them about five text structures. In addition SWELL provides two adaptations for ELs--Spanish Scaffolding (where students were presented materials in both Spanish and English) and English Hybrid (where students were given the option of seeking assistance in Spanish by hovering over words, clicking on sentences, or viewing a full page in Spanish). In this paper we report on the design and pilot studies conducted within five classrooms at grades 4,5, and 6. Our results show improvements in reading comprehension measured by researcher design measures. [For the complete proceedings, see ED557311.].

Children's Reading Comprehension and Assessment Sep 24 2020 Originating in a recent CIERA conference held at the University of Michigan, this book brings together the nation's most distinguished researchers to examine how readers understand text and how comprehension is assessed. The first part provides both national and historical contexts for the study of reading comprehension. The second part examines how vocabulary, motivation, and expertise influence comprehension, and it includes analyses of the developmental course and correlates of comprehension. Chapters in the third part consider how schools focus on comprehension for instruction and assessment. The fourth part includes chapters on large-scale assessment that analyze how test formats and psychometric characteristics influence measures of reading comprehension. At the end of each part is a commentary--written by an expert--that reviews the chapters, critiques the main points, and synthesizes critical issues. Key features of this outstanding new book include: *Integration of Research and Practice--provides a bridge between conceptual issues studied by researchers concerned with reading comprehension theories and practical issues addressed by educators concerned with classroom instruction and assessment. *Comprehension Focus--provides a thorough history and rigorous research-based analyses of reading comprehension. *Assessment Focus--provides innovative approaches to comprehension assessment that include the influences of vocabulary, decoding, and motivation. *Synthetic Commentaries--provides periodic summaries that analyze and synthesize research, practices, and issues discussed in each part. *Expertise--contributing authors and commentators are highly respected authorities on reading comprehension (see table of contents). This text is appropriate for educational and psychological researchers, reading educators, and graduate students in education and psychology. It is part of the CIERA series, which includes the following volumes: Taylor and Pearson: Teaching Reading: Effective Schools, Accomplished Teachers (2002) Van Kleeck, Stahl, and Bauer: On Reading Books to Children: Parents and Teachers (2003) Hoffman and Schallert: The Texts in Elementary Classrooms (2005)
